Sent To a Splendid Position After Taking a Course at The Southern Business College

From the High Schools To the Southern for Business Training.

The summer term of the Southern Shortland and Business University is now at hand.

This and next week are enrollment periods for the summer session. Have you sent in your application?

Patrons' Indorsement.

About ninety out of every hundred young men and young women who enroll for business training at the Southern, enter this school through the advice of former patrons.

The Employment Department of the Southern is one of its most important features. It has sent thousands of young people to positions in Atlanta and other cities.

Business done on ABILITY AND EFFICIENCY.

Employment Department.

Many business firms depend upon the Employment Department of the Southern for their bookkeepers, stenographers and secretaries, because they know that the graduates of this school are eminently efficient and capable. Its service is free to both pupil and employer.

R. O. Smith, who has accepted a position with an important Atlanta firm, attended the Southern because it was recommended to him by a former pupil as a school of high standards.

Why do so many people, both graduates and business men, advise those seeking a business education, to go to the Southern Business College?

Because of the Southern's established reputation for THOROUGHNESS. Efficiency is its keynote.

Best in the South.

Mr. Smith says in his letter, which follows, that the Southern is the best in the South:

Atlanta, Ga., May 24, 1928.

Southern Shortland and Business University, Atlanta, Ga.

Gentlemen: Your school was recommended to me by a former student and I entered to take a course in bookkeeping and shorthand. After finishing your course, you secured me a position with the Cole Iron Works, with which I am well pleased.

I wish to thank the Southern for the individual training I received, and I can highly recommend this school as being THE BEST IN THE SOUTH to all who wish to take a business course.

Again thanking the Southern, and with best wishes for the continued success of your school, I am,

Yours very truly,

R. O. SMITH.

The ever-increasing popularity of the Southern Shortland and Business University is due to advantages peculiarly its own:

Firmly and favorably established as the school of EFFICIENCY after a run of 63 years.

A teaching staff in number, experience and capability, which is ap-has been disturbed over Italy's action with regard to Albania. Albania's independence was declared in 1912, but the European powers ruled that she must be governed by a European prince, William, of Wied. At the beginning of the world war the prince and his followers left the country. In 1917 the real independence of Albania was proclaimed by Italians may get a grip on Jugo-Slavia's coast provinces.

Another definite voice has been heard in favor of Secretary Kellogg's proposal against war as a national policy—that of Japan. Japanese adherence to the anti-war pact was forwarded to the United States government, with the statement that Japan would be happy to collaborate in the discussions with a purpose of securing cessation of wars and definite establishment of an era of permanent universal peace.

Japan takes it for granted that self-defense is not excluded and that there will be nothing incompatible with obligations under the league covenant and the Locarno pact.

Chinese Situation Modified.

For the past week the war-like situation in China has been somewhat clouded. Advice from Peking and other capitals indicated that the Northern army, Marshal Chang Tso-lin, had not abandoned his decision to hold the capital and all the Northern territory of the Nationalist forces of the South. There were evidences that he had spread his armies out along the Peking-Peking railway and in other sectors, and not only were they offering resistance to the advance of the Nationalists, but were preparing for a still greater offensive.

A late report said the Nationalists had occupied Kailan, which lies considerably to the northwest of Peking. The war-front in Chihli, therefore, could be roughly sketched by a circular line running from Tsingtau in the north to Kailan.

Japan's warning that no disturbances would be permitted in Manchuria led to protests by northerners and southerners alike against this assumption by the Japanese government of power in Manchuria, which the Chinese insistently point out is Chinese territory. Peking charges that it would be a violation of the nine-power pact signed at Washington if Japan interfered in the Manchuria-Peking-Tientsin area, and promises that all foreigners will be protected.

The Nanking government alleged that Premier Tanaka of Japan had entered into secret negotiations with Chang Tso-lin, with the object of holding him in power, reestablishing the northern government in Shantung and affording him military support in return for certain concessions, embracing certain "21 demands" made in 1915. The northern government issued a denial of this.

The fourth, farm relief, has gone through the legislative mill and ended in the wastebasket. The senate sustaining the veto of President Coolidge on the McNary-Haugen measure.

In addition all of the annual supply bills to meet the expenditures of the government during the coming fiscal year have been completed, leaders of both the house and senate taking par-

the general in command of the Italian forces there. Since then Italy has had special interests in Albania, and last year entered into a defensive pact with that country.

Kellogg Plan Wins Favor.

Various parties in Jugo-Slavia have demanded that the Italian government lift its hand off Albania, and now strong resentment has been displayed over the possibility that Italians may get a grip on Jugo-Slavia's coast provinces.

Another definite voice has been heard in favor of Secretary Kellogg's proposal against war as a national policy—that of Japan. Japanese adherence to the anti-war pact was forwarded to the United States government, with the statement that Japan would be happy to collaborate in the discussions with a purpose of securing cessation of wars and definite establishment of an era of permanent universal peace.

In addition all of the annual supply bills to meet the expenditures of the government during the coming fiscal year have been completed, leaders of both the house and senate taking par-icular pains to get them out of the way well in advance of the usual end of the session legislative day.

Tax Bill Off Slate.

The house in disposing of the tax bill yesterday cleared its slate of the last big measure on its calendar and will stand by this week ready to go home at any time that the senate may make up its mind to do so.

The house will meet tomorrow at 11 a. m. and unless immediate adjournment is taken out of respect of Representative Thomas S. Butler, of Pennsylvania, chairman of its naval committee, who died yesterday, leaders plan to hold it in session for nearly 12 hours to dispose of several hundred minor bills on the calendar. Action on these measures, however, probably will mean little with slim prospects that the senate will have an opportunity to consider any before adjournment.

During the closing hours of the senate session, dam seems destined to hold its place as the unfinished business. By a vote of 44 to 22, the senate refused to sidetrack it late yesterday for consideration of the administration's $274,000,000 naval construction bill. Determined to bring the Boulder measure to a vote, Senator Johnson, republican, California, is marshalling his forces for a night session, and the senate appears ready to end again in a filibuster.

Still before congress are seven vetoes of minor bills by President Coolidge. Three of the 13 measures he has returned to congress with his disapproval have been enacted into law by the senate and house with the necessary two-thirds majorities. Attempts to override the president on three other vetoes have failed, the senate sustaining him twice and the house once. There seems but little likelihood that the other seven will be voted upon.

PAY ROLL BANDITS HEAD FOR ATLANTA

hatless and coatless. One of them was pretty badly hurt. Jenkins reported.

En route to Acworth, to a doctor's.

Jenkins said, the trio offered him an additional $5 if he would drive them to Marietta. He accepted again.

"They were all fagged out," Jenkins told Chief of Police John B. Jenkins of Cartersville, upon his return. "and slept most of the way down to Marietta. They didn't do any talking all the way."

When they reached a gas station near the little city, he said, they engaged the only conveyance available—a truck—and started off in the direction of Atlanta.

Plenty of Money.

Jenkins further reported that although the men were hatless and coatless, there was an ample supply of money on them.

Chief of Police Grover Williams, of Rome, hearing of the incident of the stolen and wrecked car, changed the Atlanta Sunday in company with other home officers. He went with Atlanta policemen to several of the hospitals in the hope of finding the injured member of the bandit gang.

Chief Williams Sunday night declared he would remain in Atlanta over the night, and expressed the hope that the trio would be captured here before Monday night.

Stentimental police force of Marietta, being apprised of the visit to that city of the desperadoes, went on a searching patrol of the town, but they had been reported up to a late hour Sunday night.

When the bandits robbed the garage at Dew's Pond, they dropped additional money, as they have been doing since they took to the swampland near Calhoun last Friday afternoon. The owner of the garage, Jim Mansfield, reported to officers that he found several five-dollar bills around the place.

"Wild West Stuff."

Since the men held up and robbed C. A. Hogg, vice president, and Clinton Strange, secretary-treasurer, of the Hanks Store works, of a pay roll of $2,980.10, they have tensely clung to the loot, but have showed an extravagant interest in using it to effect their escape. They have lost one car—a large, speedy coach—have stolen and wrecked one, have "shot up" a town and have outwitted hundreds of armed men who sought them relentlessly for two days.

When the chief of police of Calhoun tried to stop their car as it whizzed through that town Friday afternoon they ruthlessly ran him down, injuring him severely though not seriously. They took pot shots at various pedestrians and merchants, being the target themselves for scores of bullets, ten of which took effect in the rear of their car. They abandoned the car only after they had driven one of the tires to ribbons.

Taking to the dense swamp woodland they managed to slip through a great humus dragnet that was thrown about the 1,700-acre tract, and apparently are seeking safety in the crowd of a city, choosing to "take their chances with more numerous policemen than with the certainty of detection in the outlying sections."

Reported at Cartersville.

That they spent three days in Cartersville last week is almost a certainty. Employees of the hotel there say that on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week three young men, nattily attired, driving a Hudson coach—the same model as that driven by the gunmen—stayed there. They tipped employees dollars, which cemented their identity in the minds of the employees. One of them was drinking to excess, it was reported.

"Lay off the liquor," one of his companions was told to tell him. "We got a big job, you know."

To further identify them as the bandits, hotel employees said they were Panama hats. One of them sent his hat to be cleaned Thursday, but when he learned it would take longer than he had expected, he sent for it, and at 3 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, they checked out hurriedly.

At the outset of the Rome robbery there were four of them, according to Hogg and Strange. Where the fourth member went to has been only a matter of surmise on the part of officers.

Only three shot their way through Calhoun; only three entered the dismal swamplands at "Red Bluff" and only three were aboard the truck Sunday that headed for Atlanta.

JONES PLEADS FOR PARTY HARMONY

We must have unity, we must have confidence in the party, confidence in its leadership, and confidence in each other. There will be no interests of democracy sacrificed by the national party. There will, on the other hand, be a call to battle for the great principles so vitally needed in our government today.

"And while I have said that I am not a candidate for anything except the confidence, the respect and the good will of the people amongst whom I live; if I can better serve the party as a candidate, then I would gladly be a candidate; on the other hand, if I can better serve the party in the ranks, as I have always done, without personal ambition, I would prefer that. My interest in public affairs is the welfare of all people, and I believe the democratic party offers the American people the best hope—if not, indeed, the only hope—of efficient, popular and clean government."

"We must all work for party success now and in June and in November, forgetting selves and minor differences for the greater good."

HOOVER AND SMITH WILL NOT ATTEND

Good, his campaign manager, who expects to arrive in the convention city this week in advance of the hearing of delegate contests beginning June 4.

Good is not a delegate and some other supporter, perhaps Walter F. Brown, of Ohio, will be floor manager for the commerce secretary.

Lowden To Be There.

Mr. Lowden intends to arrive in Kansas City a week from Saturday. He will have a suite at the Muehlenbach hotel, and there intends to greet delegates and confer with his advisers. His campaign manager, Clarence F. Buck, will be a delegate at large from Illinois and will be on the ground to put up a fight for the former Illinois governor.

Adjournment of congress this week will enable Senator Curtis to make an early getaway from the convention city, which is just across the river from his home state of Kansas. Maneuvers on behalf of the senate floor leader, whom his friends look on as a suitable compromise candidate, will be in charge of George A. Clark, of Topeka.

Only three delegates will go into the convention with the solid support of the 33 Indiana delegates, will not be a delegate at large, as he cannot be on hand, perhaps, holding a post.

Goff Undecided.

Whether Senator Goff, of West Virginia, also will be present depends to a great extent on the outcome of the republican primary in his state Tuesday. There he is pitted against Hoover, with 19 delegates, the last to be chosen, at stake.

In the democratic primary in West Virginia, which also is held Tuesday, Smith and Regd. of Missouri, will fight it out.

The republican result will have an effect, particularly on the campaign of Hoover, whose managers claim he has nearly enough delegates in the bag to go over on the first ballot. The democratic outcome will either give impetus to the drive to put Smith over at Houston, or will have the effect of slowing up that endeavor.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD OF SCHOOL BOARD

School board members will be active this week with two meetings scheduled for today and Tuesday. A special committee of the board, headed by J. T. Hancock, will meet at the city hall this afternoon for the purpose of considering plans relative to the consolidation of Boys and Tech High schools and the board will meet as a whole Tuesday for consideration of the next move in the present $3,000,000 building program.

The committee under Chairman Hancock will decide whether or not the Henry Grady High school is in reality a consolidation of Boys and Tech schools from the standpoint of administration, or whether it is a consolidation only nominally. The committee will prepare their findings in the form of recommendations as to the future status of the schools, relation to each other, which recommendation is to be presented at the next regular meeting of the board.

The meeting of the board Tuesday is a special one called for the purpose of deciding upon the next steps in the building program which will eventually add many rooms to the present

SIX ARE ARRESTED FOLLOWING BURGLARY

Six arrests were made Sunday morning by Patrolman Lule Rattledge in connection with the burglary of a drygoods store at 118 Decatur street early Sunday morning. Some hours after the robbery had been reported by S. Ginston, proprietor of the store, six negroes, Oscar Norwood, 81 Piedmont avenue; S. F. Franklin, 92 Gilmer street; John Lowe, no address given; Rubie Campbell, 115 1-2 Decatur street; Mamie Dalton, 70 Piedmont, and Sammie Armory, 81 Piedmont, were arrested. The first four named were charged with burglary and the last two with receiving stolen goods. Part of the loot of dresses, stockings and caps taken from the Decatur street store was found in their possession, it was stated.

taken to the funeral parlors of Awtry & Lowndes.

According to police reports, Mrs. Ferguson was crossing Ponce de Leon near Highland when she was struck by the negro's car. A passing motorist, A. E. Alliston, of 927 Rosedale road, rushed Mrs. Ferguson to Georgia Baptist hospital in an unconscious condition, where examination revealed a fractured skull and minor injuries. At a late hour Sunday night, she had not regained consciousness.

Call Officers M. D. Cartwright and E. E. Brackett arrested McGuire, who said that Mrs. Ferguson stepped in front of his car from behind another automobile parked at the curb, and that it was impossible for him to stop.

Bicycle Hit.

Melvin Gassaway, of 257 Powell street, sustained lacerations about the left leg when he was struck off his bicycle Sunday at Gaskill and Powell streets by an unknown driver, who did not stop. Call Officers J. A. Smith and E. W. Ginn investigated.

G. L. Edwards, of 7 Whitley street, sustained lacerations about the face Sunday night when he struck a parked car on the Jonesboro road, which was not showing lights, he said. He told Call Officers J. T. Woodruff and Arthur Bailey that a negro jumped out of the car and fled after the accident.

Officers found no second car at the scene of the accident and Edwards said that the negro must have returned and removed it.

Other Crashes.

Collins Wilder, 25, of 1047 Lee street, was treated Sunday night at Grady hospital for lacerations about the head, sustained in an automobile accident, of which he gave doctors no particulars.

In a head-on crash Sunday afternoon in front of the Druid Hills golf club, between an automobile driven by Willie Williams, of Scottsdale, and one operated by H. L. Andrews, of 1560 Moreland avenue, Mrs. Thelma Hardy, of Scottsdale, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Hughes, of 1003 Burns drive, sustained minor injuries. Call Officers A. E. McLean and J. A. Bailey made cases of reckless driving against both drivers.

Two boys, Hugh Clark, 9 years old, and Rex Lane, 10, were treated at Grady hospital Sunday afternoon for fractures of the left arms received while the boys were at play near their homes.

Hugh, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark, 1056 Bankhead avenue, was injured when he fell from the steps of his home and Rex, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Lane, 1290 Grant street, fractured his arm when he fell from a tree near his home.

Macon, Ga., May 27.—(P)—W. F. McMurrian, who lost both eyes in an automobile wreck in Atlanta today, is the manager of a silk hosiery company here. He came here from Columbus, Ga., last December to take the place.

McMurrian is a world war veteran. His mother resides in Columbus and a sister lives here.

McMurrian told friends last night that he was going to spend Sunday in Atlanta. His key was still in his box at a local hotel tonight. A note on his office door stated that he would return at 8 o'clock Monday morning.

first left the second chute, buried his face in his arms and cried:

"My God, she's gone!"

An ambulance was hastily summoned, but a motorist carried the dead woman to Grady hospital. Wood, almost hysterical with grief, bore the broken and torn body of his wife into the hospital, where it was said that death had been instantaneous.

The body was removed to the funeral parlors of A. C. Hemperly & Sons, of East Point, where it was found that both shoulders had been smashed to a pulp, the head and chest crushed and the remainder of the body horribly mangled and bruised.

It was the third Sunday that Mrs. Wood had attempted the triple parachute jump, which she had been performing in various parts of the country for more than 15 years. It was said. Two Sundays ago she was scheduled to leap, but inclement weather prevented. Last Sunday the balloon went into the lake.

She is the second parachutist to be killed at Lakewood park. Less than two years ago, on a Sunday afternoon, August 20, 1926, a crowd of more than 20,000 spectators at the amusement park saw Jimmy Calhoun, 27-year-old parachute jumper, plunge to his death in the lake before the eyes of his newly-wedded bride, an Atlanta girl.

Mrs. Wood, with her husband, was an employee of the Anderson Ballroom company, and had been performing for many years at fairs and carnivals in various parts of the country.

was garbled and almost undecipherable.

Plane Is Ready to Fly.

These vague reports, however, found no confirmation in either Norway or Spitzbergen. Several hours after she steamed out on her rescue mission, the Clitta Di Milano reported that she was without word from the dirigible. Oslo reported that "no news since Thursday"—seven hours after the Italia reported she was returning after a flight over the pole—still was the best that could be said of the missing expedition. Lack of definite news stopped much of the activity at Kings Bay, but the little group of Italians there still were convinced of the ability of the big dirigible to remain in the air and eventually reach civilization. They displayed great interest in the report that the steamer Hobbs would be used in the search.

It was announced that on arriving at Kings Bay aboard the sealer Hobbs, Lieutenant Holm intends first to explore the north and northeast coasts of the island. Plans for the second part of the relief expedition, which will be under the joint leadership of Roald Amundsen and Captain Otto Sverdrup, have not been definitely settled.

Pope Prays For Noble.

Meanwhile Rome's morning newspapers expressed supreme confidence that the general and his crew soon would be located and exhorted their readers to remain calm. News that the Norwegian government and several famous explorers had started rescue preparations was received with great rejoicing in the Italian capital.

To further bolster up the spirits of the anxious watchers, the Rome paper Messagero recalled that the same anxiety was experienced for two days in 1926 and cited the message from the base ship, Clitta Di Milano, "they will return. They cannot fail to return."

Premier Mussolini was studying all possible means to get help to General Noble and has given orders that any news of the whereabouts of the expedition be relayed to him immediately.

Pope Pius was another anxious watcher for news and at his own mass yesterday said a special intercession for Noble and the members of his crew.

LOCAL TYPO UNION HOLDS MEMORIAL SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Annual memorial services of the Atlanta Typographical Union No. 48 were conducted Sunday afternoon at Greenwood cemetery, for members of the organization who have died during the year. Luther Still, president of the union, presided and addresses were delivered by Jerome Jones and John T. Hoffmeyer.

Members of the union sang several songs and the Electrical Workers' quartet sang "The Old Rugged Cross." The roll-call of the dead was read. The Rev. William S. Wieg conducted the invocation and asked the benediction.

INJURED IMPROVING, HOSPITALS REPORT

Dorothy Caldwell, 4-year-old girl, who was injured in a crossing crash Saturday, was slightly improved, but still in a serious condition late Sunday night, according to advice from Piedmont hospital.

According to advice from Grady hospital at the same time, Deputy Sheriff W. C. Morris and A. C. Tew, suffering from gunshot wounds received in a fight on May 19, were also somewhat improved. Morris is progressing faster than Tew, who is still unable to see anyone but hospital attendants.

ATLANTA YOUTH WINS G. M. A. DEBATE HONOR

Cadet Louis D. Yancey, Jr., of Atlanta, has been awarded a medal for the best debater at the Georgia Military Academy, following the junior-senior debate Saturday night, it was announced Sunday.

In the Saturday night debate, Cadets Yancey, Wolfe and Stevenson took the negative side of the query that the United States should not give military aid to properly situated, on foreign soil. Cadets Hightower, Hanson and Patterson spoke on the affirmative side.

Awarding of athletic honors, diplomas, medals and monograms will take place at 10 o'clock this morning with the senior class exercises scheduled at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Dr. Leon M. Latimer, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Griffin, Sunday morning delivered the commencement sermon at the school auditorium.

Dr. Latimer's subject was "May We Stand Steadfast."

Among those selected as school declaimers for tonight are two Cuban cadets and one resident of the Dutch West Indies.

In the junior school the following will declaim: Peter Hydrick, Java, Dutch West Indies; James Armand Cannon, Jacksonville, Fla.; Edward Scott de Bravere, Miami, Fla.; and Baron Troup, Augusta.

In the senior class, Robert P. Abreu, Havana, and Rene Pelley, Jr., of Havana have been named to declaim.

Randolph Throver, of Tampa; T. J. Shave, of Fernandina, Fla.; and William A. Thornton, of Atlanta, will represent the sophomore class, and Louis D. Yancey, Jr., of Atlanta; William M. Hankins, Jr., of Daytona Beach; and Loring H. Hunt, Indianapolis, Ind., will represent the junior class.

General Richmond P. Davis, commanding officer of the fourth corps area, will deliver the commencement address Wednesday morning when 11 cadets will receive diplomas.

Now You Can Reduce 2 to 4 Lbs. in a Night

Eat what you please

Wear what you please

Do what you please

Take no risky medicine

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Fayro baths in the privacy of their own homes. Fayro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and Continental Europe. For years the spas and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well-roomed men. Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

The Hot Springs Are Now Brought to You

Fascinating analyses of the active ingredients of the water from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice and enjoy the pungent fragrance of its balsam oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating perspiration forces lazy body cells to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Add Fayro to your bath at night and immediately you will lose from 2 to 4 pounds in an easy, refreshing and absolutely harmless manner.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh you and help your body throw off worn-out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will sleep better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

Loss Weight Where You Most Want To

Fayro reduces weight generally, but you can also concentrate its effect on abdomen, hips, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Wash yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself food you really want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath is the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. Inside each package you get an interesting booklet, "Health and Open Pores."

WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL TO SHOW STUDENTS' WORK

With exhibits by every department of the school on demonstration to the public, "Open House" will be observed today from 9 o'clock in the morning until 2 o'clock in the afternoon at Booker T. Washington High school.

Exhibits will be placed on display by the departments of English, mathematics, science, social science and languages, sewing, cooking, millinery, handicraft classes for girls and woodshop, tailoring, auto mechanics and masonry classes for boys.

For the first time there will be placed on exhibit various colors extracted from the clay of the school grounds by Professor V. P. Holliday, instructor in chemistry.

The baccalaureate sermon to more than 100 members of the senior class was preached Sunday afternoon at the Friendship Baptist church by Dr. E. R. Carter, pastor of the church.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

CUBBY SLIPS AWAY.
BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.
The independent don't depend upon assistance others lend.
—Cubby Bear.

Cubby was growing more and more independent every day. Yes, sir, Cubby was growing more and more independent every day. Mother Bear saw it and understood what it meant. She knew that it meant that Cubby was getting ready to go out into the Great World, and that was exactly as it should be. To tell the truth, Mother Bear was getting where she would like to be rid of the care of her twin.

Cubby didn't stick close to mother's heels now, as did his twin sister. He lingered behind. He went off exploring on little side trips of his own. He discovered that if he were alone in other words, he didn't have to share it. That wasn't nearly as selfish as it sounds. It merely means that Cubby was an observing small bear and that he was very likely to make a place for himself in the world of Bears.

Very early one morning Cubby slipped away from his mother and his sister. He didn't feel like their company that he was slipping away from them for good, but really that is what he was doing. He just meant to slip away for a little while and then rejoin them.

Now there was a certain little alder swamp up on the hill, near the foot of the Great Mountain. Cubby had discovered it once in the late fall. He remembered it now. There ought to be some nice tender young spruce saplings there up there to see. So, when his twin sister was very busy digging for a root near the Laughing Brook, and his mother was almost out of sight away. It was one of the children of going on about him. Of course, he used his eyes, but not to watch anything very sharply. Cubby's eyes are very far from being as trustworthy as his nose. Cubby's ears are better than his eyes, but even his ears are nothing compared with his nose. Just now he was using his nose chiefly to find food. Cubby wasn't thinking of much excepting his stomach. My, such an appetite as he had developed by this time. Sometimes it seemed to him that he never could get enough to eat.

Once, as he shuffled along, his nose picked up the smell of a mushroom. He turned to an old log and pulled it over. A little brown form darted away. It was one of the children of Whitfoot the Woodmouse. In a flash Cubby was after him. A little mouse like that would be only a bite, but it would be a very nice bite. The mouse disappeared in a little hole under a rotten old stump. Cubby dug his claws into the old stump and pulled. A piece of it came away so unexpectedly that Cubby fell over on his back. But instantly he rolled over on his feet again and was back at that old stump, trying to tear it to pieces. And he did tear it to pieces. But when he got it all torn to pieces, there wasn't any mouse there.

Once Cubby chased a Rabbit. He knew it was useless, but that didn't matter; it was fun. Yes, sir, it was fun, and Cubby was bubbling over with high spirits, so he just had to chase something. By and by he reached the alder swamp. Right away he began to look for roots and it wasn't long before he found some. Then he made the soft earth fly as he dug them out. Then, as he walked along aimlessly, there was a sudden sharp whistle of wings, and a bird shot up above the alders so close to Cubby's nose that the wings almost touched it. For an instant Cubby was startled. Then he realized who it was.

"I wonder who that fellow was?" muttered Cubby. "I wish I'd seen him first. I'd get fed up on these roots. I'd like a little meat. He would be very good eating. I'm sure." (Cubby's nose was still working.)

The next story: "Cubby Finds Longbill."

WEEKLY REVIEW OF COTTON MARKET

New Orleans, May 27.—(AP)—Trading has been of rather a spasmodic character during the past week, alternating between periods of activity and quiet. The general course of prices has been downward, although there was a spurt of approximately a dollar a bale early in the week and another of nearly two dollars a bale at the week's end.

On Monday last, October traded as high as 20.75 or 25 points above the closing level of the preceding Saturday. This bulge was due to rather too much rain in the central and eastern portions of the belt and unseasonably cool weather. As the weather started to improve, however, and as the weekly weather and crop summary declared that the weather was more favorable and that progress had been made in planting and in the growth of the crop, prices eased off steadily under rather liberal liquidation by those who had bought during the period of bad weather.

As a result of this selling pressure eased off steadily until on Friday, October crossed the 20-cent line on the scale down trading as low as 19.00 or 85 points down from Monday's high and 103 points below the level reached near the close of the preceding week.

On Friday less favorable crop reports from the interior and a good trade demand for contracts caused prices to rally from the low of the week, reaching the same morning until prices showed a recovery of 37 points or nearly $2 a bale. As Saturday's net changes were small, the week-end near Friday's high point showing a net loss for the week of 20 points.

The market was dominated by the weather during the entire week. The few private average estimates issued to date vary from less than 3 per cent increase to a possibility of 10 per cent increase, but as it is too early to arrive at any worthwhile idea of the area scouted with the crop not yet entirely planted, the private estimates were ignored. For convenience most traders assumed an increase in acreage of 5 per cent.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the past week compared with a year ago:

	High	Low	Close	Last
May	20.95	20.25	20.40	19.08
June	20.90	20.05	20.45	19.12
July	20.75	19.90	20.35	17.65
August	20.60	19.85	20.25	17.55
September	20.45	19.70	20.15	17.45

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE
BAKER COUNTY POWER COMPANYFirst Mortgage 7% Gold Bonds Dated
July 1, 1921

Notice is hereby given that all of the outstanding twenty-year 7% First Mortgage Gold Bonds of the Baker County Power Company, dated July 1, 1921, secured by a certain deed of trust or first mortgage of even date with said bonds, from the Baker County Power Company to the Citizens and Southern Bank, of Atlanta, Georgia, are hereby called for redemption, and will be redeemed, retired and paid on July 1, 1928, at the redemption price of 105% of the principal sum, the coupons for interest maturing on said redemption date, July 1, 1928, being, also, payable in accordance with the terms thereof; and upon presentation and surrender of said twenty-year 7% first mortgage bonds of the Baker County Power Company, dated July 1, 1921, with all unmatured coupons thereunto appertaining, to the Citizens and Southern National Bank, the successor in trust of the Citizens and Southern Bank, under the deed of trust or first mortgage securing said bonds, at the office of the Citizens and Southern National Bank, in Atlanta, Georgia, said bonds will be paid at the redemption price of 105% of the principal amount thereof, and the interest due on said bonds on July 1, 1928, upon the surrender of the coupon for such interest, in accordance with the terms thereof, will, also, be paid.

From and after July 1, 1928, said bonds shall cease to draw interest, and the coupons maturing subsequently to that date shall be void, and thereafter said bonds shall cease to be entitled to any further benefit of or from the aforesaid trust indenture, except to receive payment of the redemption price on, or after the redemption date, in accordance with the provisions of this notice.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Baker County Power Company, pursuant to resolutions of its stockholders and of its Board of Directors, has caused this notice to be executed in its behalf by its President, and attested by its Secretary.

Dated December 1st, 1927.

BAKER COUNTY POWER COMPANY,

By B. H. Hardaway, Jr., President.

Attest: W. G. Cotton, Secretary.

THE Equitable Trust Company of New York is a commercial bank offering every facility and convenience of the large metropolitan banking institution. It has shown a gain of more than 70% in net deposits during the last seven years.

The Equitable Abroad

Organized in 1871, The Equitable Trust Company, in a half century's growth, has built up one of the most complete and far-reaching foreign banking services offered by an American trust company. This company has three European offices, two in London and one in Paris, an office in Mexico City and, through its subsidiary, the Equitable Eastern Banking Corporation, is represented in two large central markets of the Far East, Hongkong and Shanghai. These offices and a highly developed system of more than 11,000 correspondents have gained for The Equitable an unusual prestige among foreign banks and business men.

The Equitable's Domestic Organization

In addition to four offices in New York City, The Equitable's domestic organization includes district representatives' offices in seven of the country's key industrial cities. Two of these, in Boston and Washington, are offices of its subsidiary, The Equitable Securities Company, Inc. These offices operate for the convenience of correspondent banks and local business houses carrying New York accounts. Close contact with the home office enables our representatives to offer valuable facilities for supplying international credit information, for arranging every kind of foreign banking transaction, and for executing orders in its security markets of the world.

Business houses, whose broad activities and interests require a New York banking connection, are invited to communicate with our local representative or New York office regarding the advantages of an account with The Equitable.

Short Term Notes

Each week The Equitable issues a selected list of short term securities to provide investment for the liquid funds of industrial and banking organizations.

Bond Investment Suggestions

Each month The Equitable prepares a wide selection of bond issues suitable for business and personal investment needs.

Bank clearings in the United States for the week ending May 24, as reported to Bradstreet's Journal, aggregated $12,300,457,000, as against $12,222,825,000 in same week last year. There is here shown a decrease of 7.2 per cent from week before last, but a gain of 25.7 per cent over the like week a year ago. Canadian clearings aggregated $258,342,000, against $441,202,000 week before last and $227,250,000 in same week last year. HIGH COSTS OF SICKNESS.

Not only in Atlanta, where the problem of providing hospitalization for citizens of moderate means is pending, in the issue of whether or not the city and county will match equally the proffer of $100,000 by Jacob Elsas for the erection of a small-cost pay ward unit at Grady, but the identical problem has sprung into national importance by the creation of an organization to expertly study the question of lowering the present high costs of sickness, which problem strikes heavily and distressingly at families of moderate means.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford university, and former president of the medical association, has declared, in an announcement just issued from Washington, that "this is the most pressing medical question before the people today, and is daily becoming more acute."

The "committee on the cost of medical care" has set up an establishment in Washington, and has already begun to function. It includes some of the most eminent physicians, sanitarians and economists in the country. Financial support has been supplied by the Carnegie Corporation, the Milbank Memorial fund, the Russell Sage foundation and the Twentieth Century fund.

Participating in the research will be the American Medical Association, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, the United States public health service, and various other agencies.

Dr. Wilbur makes it plain that, as a whole, physicians, surgeons, dentists, and nurses, are not receiving adequate remuneration for their skilled services, and yet the cost of illness to the people of the United States reaches the staggering total of $5,000,000,000 a year. In the face of this he declares "a large group of persons are not receiving needed medical attention at costs within their means." Complaints of high charges are frequent and he fears "some of them are justified."

Then what is the trouble? That is precisely what the committee expects to find out, and suggest the antidote.

The committee's actual program will consist of the three following groups of studies:

"Preliminary surveys of data showing the incidence of disease, disability requiring medical services, and of general existing facilities for dealing with them."

"Studies on the cost to the family of medical services and the return accruing to the physician and other agents furnishing such services."

"Analysis of specially organized facilities for medical care now serving particular groups of the population."

The first finding in the solution of the problem, it is believed, will be in more efficient methods for preventing disease. At any rate, it is a study of vital importance, and the foundations providing funds for such a practical and scientific research are doing a great public service.

The very necessity for cheaper medical treatment, and cheaper hospitalization, that has now assumed a national scope is the necessity for Atlanta that Mr. Elsas foresaw years ago, and which should have had favorable action in the matching of his very generous proposal years ago. This small cost-pay unit should have been built and functioning long before this.

There are thousands of families in Atlanta who are not eligible for Grady, which is a charity hospital, but whose incomes will not permit of entering sick members into the high-cost private sanitariums. Hence the ill members of these families usually go without hospital care and treatment, and often suffer and die by reason of it.

will act favorably and promptly on the Elsas offer. It is understood the county stands immediately ready to duplicate the city's favorable action. To longer delay the matter would be inexcusable.

NEW ENGLANDERS COMING

The steady movement of New England cotton mills to the south, where labor and climatic conditions are ideal, and in conformity with the law of industrial economics in placing the factory at the base of the raw production supply, has created such a wide party of business men from Massachusetts and other states of the east will shortly tour the south to study the nature and value of the resources of this section, and the opportunities for investors.

The party will be headed by William R. Evans, president of the Boston Five Cents Savings bank, an institution with deposits exceeding $100,000,000.

The itinerary has not yet been completed, and it is hoped the governor, mayor of Atlanta and trade groups will immediately extend invitations to visit Atlanta, and from there various other sections of Georgia.

The tour is one of good will, and the New England visitors, it is assured, are not coming for the purpose of tearing down, or of finding conditions that may be used to help arrest the industrial trek from that section to this. On the contrary the industrial progress of the south is of such outstanding momentum that the far-seeing capitalists are now disposed to get into the procession rather than to obstruct it.

The trip south will be undertaken shortly. It is of tremendous significance.

The south has nothing to hide, but a great deal to show. By all means let us welcome them with cordial hospitality and assist in every possible way in not merely making the tour pleasant, but in making their studies and researches as thorough and satisfying as they may wish.

NEW TRADE-SHIP POLICY.

The new merchant marine act, which has received executive approval, is a forward step in the right direction, although it does not go as far as it should.

It commits this government, however, to private ownership and operation of the present federal-owned fleet, and extends various encouragements to adequately equipped private steamship corporations to take over the ships and operate the lines more successfully than the government has been able to do.

Heretofore it has required the unanimous vote of the seven members of the shipping board to sell a vessel. This provision has prevented, by the veto of one member, a number of sales that the majority of the board favored, and that were regarded by shipping experts as strengthening to the United States trade-carrying fleet had the proposed sales been consummated. Under the new law five of the seven members can sell the government's vessels to private interests.

This improved condition will automatically eliminate much of the friction that has existed in, and, at times, almost discredited the shipping board.

The new law increases the construction "loan fund" from $125,000,000 to $250,000,000, thereby enabling the government to more substantially aid private operators to so equip their lines as to put them on an earning basis.

Perhaps the most substantial practical aid to private operators is contained in the provision equalizing the ocean contract mail system.

Heretofore foreign lines have had the advantage in this respect. Mail contracts from overseas governments, or from the governments of Central and South America, were made at higher rates to ship operators flying other than America's insignias than this government would meet. Contracts for mail service made with the shipping board—though a wheel within a wheel—were made at lower rates than foreign ships plying the same sea lanes were paid.

The mail contracts constitute one of the largest sources of revenues enjoyed by ocean vessels of the passenger-freight type, and this equalization will go far toward stimulating private operation of American vessels.

The government's operation of the merchant marine has been a failure from the beginning.

It is believed the new law will revive the interests of private operators toward gradually relieving the government of the burden.

Congress has about appropriated all of the surplus but they still have the deficiency bill to fall back upon as a last resort.

The New York woman who fed her husband needles and pins may have hoped it would tend to patch up their differences.

No slush fund committee will have to investigate Mayor Jimmy Walker for he is going to run for reelection on a five-cent fare.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

An Official Document.

Here follows a translation of a letter written by Jachetti Francesco, secretary of the Association of Fascist officials. It is addressed to local branch secretaries of that organization: "Dear comrades: From many sides I receive complaints about the fact that many of our colleagues who do not salute in the Roman manner, and of cases of some who ostentatiously show their disgust for this strict rule of the secretarial-general. Before denouncing specific cases where a flagrant disregard has been shown, I wish to remind all colleagues of the duty that I and that the salute must be carried out in a swift and rapid movement. Those who lift their arms as if they were tired or only halfway as if they were suffering from rheumatism, are hereby advised to cure their ailments rapidly, if they wish to escape salutary and energetic massage. For those who do not practice the Roman salute, I want to say that from now on, in all official functions, rain, snow and roasted nightingales, it may be that a halfhearted salute descended upon their heads capable of restoring strict observance of fascist discipline. With fascist greetings, (signed) Jachetti Francesco."

Behind Thick Walls.

The monthly "Europe," a review of the highest international standing, which counts among its collaborators Turgenev, Rodin, and Romain Rolland, and which has always shown a scrupulous regard for truth, publishes some astonishing revelations on fascist procedure with democratic and liberal persons. In certain prisons the system of torture has been improved and men must undergo the frightful sufferings that were in another age considered exclusive to the fantasies of the inquisition. Fine and needles are again pushed under men's finger-nails and hairs are torn out one by one to mention but a few of the methods of procedure cited in "Europe." Other methods simply cannot be mentioned in polite society. "Fascism is trying to break the last resistance of the working class in Italy," says the review, "and is having recourse to the most savage and barbarous methods ever known." And it goes on to tell the experiences of hundreds of workmen who were arrested indiscriminately, and the terror that rages behind thick medieval prison walls. To the contrary such measures stiffen resistance and strengthen it and work to the disadvantage of the downtrodden and oppressed slave.

The Pope in Jerusalem.

When I received a card of invitation not long ago to attend a secret where it was announced, the secret plan of the Jews to bring the Pope to Jerusalem, would be a great desire to see what sort of people were wasting their time with such foolish drives. I attended, and I saw more than a dozen persons were present, all men, and I gathered from the introductions that they belonged to the nobility. Liquors were served, and let me say at once, they were excellent. The oration of the evening was an eloquent but, in my account given by a gentleman who wore a monocle and cream-colored suit, a Prince Albert, and a high collar. At times his voice dropped to a whisper as he regaled his audience with the horrible details of unbelieved crimes in the Paris underworld, with the inference, of course, that they were part of the "international Jewish conspiracy." His exposure of a so-called attempt by the Jews to make the Roman Pontiff "King of Jerusalem" excited pieces of information, in the genre of Openheimer's secret diplomatic battles behind the scenes. Why, then, are we present believed it or not, I cannot say, but it sounded a great deal, like one of those brilliant discourses psychiatrists sometimes report to have heard in asylums.

Health Talks

AN OUTLINE OF HYGIENE

Diseases We Can't Explain
Large statistics show the mortality tables of the United States census bureau indicate that the death rate from diseases that we understand has steadily declined in the last 30 to 40 years, the death rate from diseases we do not understand has advanced. Chief among the diseases we understand are pneumonia, tuberculosis, and all the familiar epidemic or infectious diseases. The diseases we do not know so much about are cancer, on the one hand, and cardiovascular degeneration on the other hand. This term cardiovascular degeneration is a sorry one originally conceived, perhaps, to help the doctors conceal their ignorance for while a doctor gets the habit of springing a frightful or at least an imposing medical term on the patient when in a quandary as to the explanation of the test, the patient amused and checks his curiosity or his anxiety until the doctor can get a line in what is the matter. Did you ever envisage "bad cold" in that light? Or run down condition? Or overwork? Don't let it if the victim is to share your thoughts, but try it some time when some personage falls ill in the newspaper. Well, this habit seems to affect the doctors as much as well as in practice. So they hit on a tacit agreement to apply this lugubrious term, cardiovascular degeneration, or CVD for short, to hardening of the arteries, slow heart muscle failure (chronic myocarditis), chronic Bright's disease, nephrosis, and various odds and ends of more or less blameless fads, such as angina pectoris, and aneurysm. The cardiovascular part is fair enough—it means heart and artery; but the degeneration part is obsolete, misleading and discouraging to the patient. There is no such thing as a degeneration who would shake off the forbidding influence of pessimism and strive to learn something about these diseases of mature and elderly people. So let us discard the "degeneration" idea because it is only a pathological error, and call this group of diseases just cardiovascular disease.

One of the favorite pastimes of physicians is creating or listening to orations about the marvelous progress of modern health authorities to accept ambiguous or indefinite terms like "breakdown," "exhaustion," "overwork," and "paralysis" as the cause of death in the physician's certificate. Unquestionably many cases of cardiovascular disease were disguised under such terms in the morbidly and mortality statistics of earlier generations.

Just in Passing

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

The June standard magazine, particularly those dealing with authoritative articles on timely topics, rather than with fiction and lighter material, are more intensely interesting to the thoughtful citizen than they have been in many months.

They are forums for discussions, by competent commentators, of people and issues now in the national eye, particularly as relating to the approaching party convention, and the possible results as to nominees and platforms.

Before other issues of the magazine of this class will appear the 1928 national conventions will have made history and passed into history.

Hence the current numbers are the "last bites at the cherry" before the Kansas City and the Houston gatherings.

The leading article in the June North American Review is by Clark Howell, editor-in-chief of The Constitution, under the terse but significant caption, "Houston—1928."

The general subject matter, naturally, can be forecast by the title, but Mr. Howell has some decided views as to what may occur at the democratic national convention, and he has the courage to express them.

By way of parenthesis, let me say—as one who has labored side by side with him for many years, not merely in politics but in his untiring efforts in promoting the general progress of the south, and in helping to strengthen the economic welfare of the whole people—the author of "Houston—1928" is not a "straddler" on any problem; there is not one iota of demagoguery in his making; never a thought of expediency; but he is possessed of an unflinching and an unyielding faith in the tenets of America's constitutional government, and in the Jeffersonian and Jacksonian principles of the old-fashioned, time-tested democratic party.

He hates the "isms" and the "schisms" that tend toward radicalism and paternalism, and the broncho type of so-called democracy that came out of the west thirty-odd years ago and sought to snatch its way from the house of the fathers, and land us under a new shelter far distant from the ancestral traditions that kept the party of the Union from being submerged in oblivion by the hysteria of that day that swept over the south from the shores of the Platte.

In his North American Review article, Mr. Howell expresses a strong belief that the best interests of the south can be served by having two strong political parties.

He is right. But let me add, and he agrees with me in this, that this will be difficult of attainment as long as the republican party upholds the negro as its party spokesman and representative in the south.

The most outspoken white republican in the south, who is not prejudiced by federal patronage, and who is not a public officeholder, and who are not prejudiced, and who take this view—will admit that this statement is eminently correct.

No newspaper in the south has fought more vigorously for the welfare of the negro, for his rightful place in the scheme of affairs, for his vocational education, for the strengthening of his usefulness and for fair treatment to him, than has The Constitution, but, however much we long for strong parties in the south may be desired in order to place the south on a parity with other sections in governmental recognition, the white people of the old black belt will never build up a republican party, even in the same numerical class with the democratic party, if the result shall be to have the party leaders of other sections make the negro the party oracle below the Mason and Dixon line.

Mr. Howell is unmistakable in his sensing of new alignments in both of the old parties as they exist today.

He believes the problem, "what to do with the extremist," will be paramount at Houston.

He sees party success ahead if harmony is there linked with sanity.

He sees certain defeat if there is a repetition of the discord that marked the 1924 convention.

Only once before has the national democratic party held its convention in the lower south—that in Charleston in 1880.

It was abortive.

He gives a brief history of that convention, and the adjourned convention held at Baltimore.

The democrats split into factions.

no more now about the nature, cause, prevention or treatment of chronic nephritis (Bright's disease), or apoplexy (cerebral hemorrhage, stroke of paralysis), or arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries), or chronic myocarditis (chronic heart disease), or any of the other diseases of the heart, than we knew 30 years ago, though it is only fair to say that the country is already getting excited about it, and men are making enemies of old friends by condemning all who do not agree with them in the choice of a man for the chief executive office. And it will be next March before we have a new president!

However important the presidency may be, I think it is given plenty of attention by Americans. As for myself, I am going to think and talk about other things. There are plenty of talkers and writers to discuss the candidates and the issues (if any) with me at any time. There are plenty of talkers and lecturers on political and semi-political subjects for years and years. I used to get excited about these things. I thought that the election of a would-be man a nation's ruin, and that the election of B would put right upon the throne and wrong upon the scaffold.

The result was the election of Lincoln, with a minority popular vote in the nation of little more than one-half to one.

He fears a repetition, but hopes for a spirit of concord—that there will occur no controversies so acrid and obstinate as to foment divisions and of serious such as wrecked the party's fortunes; at that crucial hour in America's history.

He advances the suggestion, however, that "the more appealing he is to a sporting spirit," today, "would be that the Houston convention will split rather than solidify."

Writes Mr. Howell: "Human experience is that the most implacable, unreasonable creature at large is the reformer, whether his motives be moral, religious, social, political or what not. He is 'not in his system' and that bars argument with him. He looks big in the democratic party and his conservatism is to defeat the nomination of any person known or suspected to be unfriendly to a drastic prohibition policy. It is sheer folly to blink the fact that the leading spirits of that faction are strongly disposed to incite their partisans to bolt the action of the Houston convention should that action be contrary to their demands. In that event, and whether the bolters simply sulked in their tents on election day, or led away a third party aggregation of insurgents, the net result could be certain defeat of the party in the general elections."

If such a situation shall arise Mr. Howell very naturally asks the question, "what is to become of the democratic vote in the New England and middle states? Can it be held hereafter?"

He trembles for the party's future if insanity, intolerance, bigotry and fanaticism reign at Houston. And correctly so.

He also sees the possibility of a split at Kansas City.

And if so, with "the bond of peace and fraternity enshrined for posterity in the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington," why not parties that are both equally national, he asks.

Continuing he writes—and this is vital—

"Politics in the south, monopolized and dominated by the leaders of a single caste and serving party, has been a source of interest of national or international quality. We have inherited our home patriotism, because, for a long season following the war between the states we figured and felt as 'the poor relation' of the richer and more powerful sections of the Union. Our isolation and enforced self-preservation encouraged local oligarchy and enfeebled our strains of statesmanship. The education of the rule and prohibited competition in political matters have been impoverishing to the cultural, social, industrial and progressive interests of the southern states. The masses of the south need the awakening and stimulating influence of new and expansive political issues."

He is mindful, therefore, that if both Kansas City and Houston should exhibit nose dives and crash the old machines "there will be cheers rather than tears among many millions of citizens who would hasten to exchange their old tags."

Mr. Howell concludes his very engaging, thoughtful and courageous contribution to the North American Review with this beautiful and altruistic thought:

"It demands great human or national issues, and strong moral convictions and visions, to marshal the emotions and consciences of a people so numerous and practical as ours. Newly framed parties with newly accented leaders might produce the needed new revival and resumed marches upon the highway of noble service and national glory."

I have here referred to this more-than-interesting discussion by Mr. Howell without his knowledge or consent.

When I undertook this Sunday afternoon to write the usual "Just in Passing" for Monday's Constitution, I had in mind an entirely different subject.

Running casually over several magazines on my desk I came across the June North American Review and this featured article.

I read it before I began to write. It gripped me with its soundness, its liberality, its fearlessness, its correctness.

Everyone, except the extremist himself—the individual who prefers to grope through the darkness of a starless night rather than stand out squarely in the sunlight of justice and opportunity and right—will agree that Mr. Howell's "Houston—1928" is unanswerable, and expresses the situation fearlessly, but with the guidance of a hope that reason may supplant dogma, that sanity may supplant hysteria, and that the sunset of the Houston convention may witness the dawn of a democratic victory.

The World and All

BY CHARLES R. DRISCOLL.

MORE IMPORTANT THINGS.

Inhabitants of the United States are getting ready to vote for candidates for the presidency, and I have no doubt that this is a very important affair. The country is already getting excited about it, and men are making enemies of old friends by condemning all who do not agree with them in the choice of a man for the chief executive office. And it will be next March before we have a new president!

But the Patient Is Desperate Enough To Try Anything Once

Timely Views of Noted Americans

BY DR. HUBERT WORK.

(Dr. Hubert Work was born at Marion Center, Ia., in 1859. After he was graduated from the Indiana, Pennsylvania, State Normal school, he studied in the medical department of the University of Michigan and later at the University of Pennsylvania. He began practice at Greeley, Colo., in 1881, and later at Pueblo, Colo. He founded a hospital for mental and nervous diseases there. Work started his political career by serving as delegate at large of the republican national convention in 1908. He became first assistant postmaster general of the United States in 1912, and postmaster general in 1922. He has been secretary of the latter since 1923.)

PRESS SUPPORT URGED TO MAINTAIN AMERICAN IDEALS.

"When great newspapers or magazines ridicule a law, 'play up' a policy of contempt for law and its enforcement, and in news and editorial columns foster law evasion, such publications are doing more to destroy American institutions than the courts can do to sustain them."

The ethics of the press should be uncompromising for what is best, for it has become an institution of government. Before the advent of the radio, the newspaper was the people's only speaking voice.

But it may with profit recall the Greek proverb: "He who ceases to be a friend never was one." And he assured that the public is slow to abandon its old dependence upon the press. Sincerity in the sacrament of individual friendships and when a national press is built upon sincerity and has faith in final justice, the people will be safe.

I have more faith in the corrective influence of the press sometimes than in our laws. Laws may be obscured and hidden away. They cannot engage the public mind. They can only be invoked on occasion, and are always subject to interpretations and contraventions.

I value the sense of safety in the public mind and its interpretations of the underlying principles of government. The public has a subconscious sense of justice by which it detects falacious propaganda in time. It is the higher sense of human character that the press should develop and keep before its readers for their ultimate safety and its own security as well.

We are now in the process of stabilizing ourselves socially, in business and government. Never has this country been so plant to suggestions by the press. We consciously acquire learning in school, but admit education begins afterward, when experience becomes the teacher.

The press has a wide field in preparing the country after the strife of the war for the evaluation of peace and its pursuits; in the building up of a new national character, shaken and loosened by the war spirit that permeated the land; and in bringing back to the people a perspective of fundamental principles of civic righteousness and fealty to government.

One Bill of Big Promise.

When the president signed the Jones-White bill to preserve and promote the American merchant marine he did an act which should help to fix his fame as a forward looking American president. The step thus taken should never be recanted or repealed. This nation should never again be permitted to reach the condition wherein 92 per cent of our ocean-carrying commerce was carried in foreign vessels. The proportion ought logically to run just the other way.

In 1880 the democratic national platform declared for "free ships and a living chance for American commerce." The step thus taken, and in 1884 it arraigned the republican party in these stinging terms: "Under a long period of democratic rule and policy our merchant marine was fast overtaking and on the point of outstripping that of Great Britain. Under 20 years of republican rule and policy our commerce has been left to

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Some of the Acts Accomplished by Congress That the South Welcomes.

Washington, May 27.—(Special.) Months ago, in this column, the writer told the Constitution's readers that the consistent policy we demand for the people of the United States an American policy. Under democratic rule and policy our merchants and sailors, flying the Stars and Stripes in every port, successfully searched out a market for the varied products of American industry. Republican rule and policy have managed to surrender to Great Britain, along with our commerce, the control of the markets of the world.

Why quote further from democratic declarations since and all of the same tenor? The democratic party cannot consistently do otherwise than uphold and carry on the American merchant marine policy of its past history.

An Aid to Equalize Southern Ports.

This new merchant marine bill, with ship-building loans and reparations funds, should be equitably administered. If it is, its provisions will go far to equalize our southern ports with those of the north Atlantic seaboard. Our representatives in the federal establishment should be vigilant to demand and secure their proper equities.

It is an absurd anachronism—even an artificial and forced reversal of commercial logic—that such huge volumes of our southern foreign trade has now to come in and go out through eastern ports north of Norfolk.

All the exchange, handlings, and freighting profits go to the people in those ports, when they should remain to our own people in our own southern seaports.

Since all the people of the south are proportionally furnishing the money for promoting the merchant marine, they are entitled to have their just share of the benefits it brings to the nation.

The Act for Flood Control.

Congress will be due the full measure of praise for the flood control act. The $225,000,000 authorized to wall the banks of our southern rivers, proper channel and end its erratic devastations in none too much for the purpose, excepting $20 a week. It is not enough there should be no future grudging of what may be needed.

The latest floods were the most disastrous ever known. The lives lost were precious to those who loved the loaves, and the property and trade damages were hard losses to the sufferers.

This great, opulent and sympathetic people could not contemplate a repetition of such disasters with indifference. Hence the stern demand, voiced by the presses of every section of the union, for immediate and adequate flood relief.

And now that such relief is enacted and will be accomplished, we await with hope the enactment of the Muscle Shoals measure to give to such constant currents of hydroelectric power as will transform their towns, cities, homes and farms into luminous and luxurious possessions.

3 NEW BISHOPS ARE CONSECRATED

Kansas City, May 27.—Consecration of the three newly-elected bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church in a spectacular ceremony here today climaxed the four weeks' session of the quadrennial general conference which concludes at noon Tuesday. The conference convened May 1.

In an impressive laying on of hands, Bishops Raymond J. Wade, of Chicago, and James O. Baker, of Urbana, Ill., and Missionary Bishop Edwin F. Lee, of Singapore, were consecrated to their Episcopal duties before a record crowd in convention hall.

Assignments of the 33 effective bishops to residences throughout the world remained as the principal business of the conference, though scores of important reports were still to be discussed.

Dr. Merton S. Rice, chairman of the subcommittee of the Episcopacy committee which assigns bishops, said his committee likely would report late Monday night or Tuesday morning.

The Rev. John P. Ingerslev, former head of the Jerusalem church in Copenhagen, Denmark, who was unseparated and ousted from the church in 1925 for his connection in the Bishop Anton East civil trial, was reported reinstated to full ministry and membership. The judiciary committee reported Mr. Ingerslev had been unseparated illegally and without sufficient cause.

ATLANTA ESCAPE BREAKS PRISON IN PENNSYLVANIA

Pittsburgh, May 27.—(AP)—James Watson, a negro held here as a fugitive from justice and on charges of breaking and entering, said to have escaped from a number of jails in southern cities, escaped from the Allegheny county jail here today. He was recaptured in a few hours.

The negro was said to have twice escaped from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta and from prisons in Nashville and Birmingham.

214 Killed or Wounded In Mexican Rebel Battle

REBELS LOSE 82 KILLED, 75 INJURED

Mexico City, May 27.—(United News)—Two hundred and fourteen men were killed or wounded in fighting between Mexican federal troops and rebels at Manzanillo, an official report from the military governor of the State of Colima revealed today.

The rebels lost 82 killed and 75 wounded and the federal losses were 20 killed and 28 wounded, according to the official report of the governor, General Heideodoro Cabrera.

Rebels attacked Manzanillo, the west coast port town, at dawn Friday after cutting all communications. Police reinforced the federal garrison of thirty men and a warship in the harbor turned its guns on the rebels.

Severe street fighting followed in which a number of prominent rebel leaders were captured. They later were executed.

Federal infantry and cavalry were sent from Colima and engaged the insurgents in fighting throughout the day. The police and little garrison met the rebel advance in the streets and hand-to-hand fighting followed for several hours before the assailants were driven out of the city.

The gunboat kept up a steady bombardment of the rebels and aided the land forces materially in forcing them to retreat.

May Showers Expected Back In City Today

After a brief respite Sunday from the April showers, which haven't found out that it's May yet, this afternoon probably will bring back the more or less discomfiting presence of June, Pluvius, chief tender of celestial water spouts, it was forecast Sunday by the national weather bureau in Washington, D. C.

Preceding the rain this afternoon, this morning will be partly cloudy. It is predicted. Sunday's temperatures ranged from a high mark of 82 degrees to a low reading of 62 degrees, with nary a sight of rain or cloud all day.

POLISH AVIATORS FAIL IN ATTEMPT TO BREAK RECORD

Paris, May 27.—(AP)—The Polish aviators, Captains Idzikowski and Kubala, who on Friday started an endurance test of the plane in which they plan to fly from Paris to New York, landed after being in the air 32 hours. Faulty oil valves brought them to ground.

The aviators plan to continue their hop-off for America early in June. They will fly via the Azores.

MAN BURNED ALIVE WHEN CAR WRECKS

Macon, Ga., May 27.—(AP)—James S. Quinn, 50, a mining expert employed by the Georgia Lime Rock company, near Perry, Ga., was burned to death when his automobile caught fire after turning over 12 miles south of here on the Dixie highway early today.

J. C. Hardy, Jr., of Perry, Ga., companion of Quinn, succeeded in pulling himself out of the wreckage and fire, but he was unable to save Quinn, he told rescuers who reached the scene a few minutes later.

Hardy was taken to the Macon hospital, where he was admitted as a patient. He was severely bruised and slightly burned but his condition is not considered serious.

The body of Quinn was brought to this city and was sent to Redick, Fla., tonight, at the request of his wife, who resides in that town. Besides his wife he is survived by two children.

Quinn came here from Ocala, Fla., last August to take a position with the Georgia Lime Rock company, and Hardy were en route to Perry from Macon when the accident happened.

ANTI-SMITH FIGHT OF POWER BODIES WILL BE PROBED

Washington, May 27.—(United News)—The federal trade commission's utilities investigation will turn to New York state Monday when it will inquire into efforts made to defeat Governor Alfred E. Smith's hydroelectric program.

Investigators have been working in New York state for some time and are said to have collected data including evidence of the power lobby's influence in Albany and the attempt to discredit Governor Smith's projects.

MILLEDGEVILLE PLANS 'WHITE WAY' JUBILEE

Milledgeville, Ga., May 27.—Milledgeville is to celebrate her new "White Way" on June 4, by one of the most elaborate jubilees and celebrations ever held in Milledgeville, according to Mayor Marvin E. Pennington.

Several blocks in the business section of the city will be closed to traffic on Monday afternoon, June 4, and the streets washed and cleaned. Refreshment stands will be placed at regular intervals along the sidewalks and the entire town will turn out to celebrate.

The Georgia Power Company's band of Atlanta has been secured to assist in furnishing music. An "Old Fiddler's Contest" will also be staged, competition being open to the entire state and prizes being awarded to the best fiddlers present. Invitations are being sent to leading citizens over the state. City council will hold a special meeting on Monday, May 28, for the purpose of making arrangements for staging the celebration, for appointing of sub-committees to handle the various details to be looked after and for officially sending out invitations on behalf of the City.

The committee in charge of making preliminary arrangements is composed of Mayor M. E. Pennington, Mayor Pro-Tem S. D. Stenbridge, and M. L. Curry, owner of the Colonial theatre.

June 4 was selected because of it being the date of the G. S. C. V. commencement and hundreds of visitors will be in town attending the commencement exercises. Mayor Pennington states that the city will be glad to have all commencement visitors come prepared to stay in Milledgeville until the celebration is over Monday night.

The town will be decorated for the occasion and dancing will be allowed on the streets from 7:30 until midnight.

Raymond Robins To Speak At Athens Anti-War Meet

The main speaker at the conference on the "Cause and Cure of War" at Athens next Thursday will be Colonel Raymond Robins, of Florida and Chicago.

Probably no more picturesque figure can be mentioned in American life today than that of Colonel Robins who has reached his maturity at a time when some of the most stirring history of the world has been made. And he himself has had a vital part in almost all great events of his time. He studied social service as a science; he has investigated large national and international questions; he has worked at various tasks but all with the betterment of the world as their ultimate object. Nothing has been too humble, nothing too comprehensive for Colonel Robins to attempt and it is a fact that he has been successful in managing a municipal lodging house in Chicago as he has been in representing the American Red Cross in Russia.

He has been a world traveler. Adventure, investigation, achievement and tireless effort have been the impulses of his life, and he has carried to successful conclusions all the work that he has undertaken.

Statistics as to his various positions would give no idea of the varied character of the man's work or of the varied achievements of his life. However, it may be said that his life Theodore Roosevelt, he first of all overcame the handicap of poor health. From the gold fields of Alaska to the steppes of Russia his intrepid spirit led him and he found an outlet for his impulse toward world improvement in the crime center of Chicago at its worst as well as in the war torn countries of Europe.

For several years Colonel Robins managed a municipal lodging house in Chicago, and he also served as one of the directors of the Northwestern university settlement. He was a close friend and co-worker of Jane Addams as well as of other social service pioneers and experts. He was a leader in the national Christian evangelistic social campaign; an active worker

BEAUCHAMP TALK THRILLS WESLEYAN

Macon, Ga., May 27.—(P)—Hundreds of alumnae, out-of-town visitors and Macon friends of Wesleyan college, heard Bishop W. B. Beauchamp tell the last graduating class to hear a commencement sermon from that historic pulpit this morning, that "the only worth while life is the life made over by the creative force that is faith in Jesus Christ."

Present were the alumnae of the college here for the last commencement in the old buildings. Classes over a period of 70 years were represented. A single member of the class of 1857 sat on the front row. Members of the class of 1927 were scattered over the house.

Relatives and friends of members of the class of 1928 were there and fixed their gaze on both aisles at once as the academic procession filed into the building. The graduates occupied a reserved section in the front center of the auditorium. The members of the faculty and board of trustees marched past baskets of flowers to take their seats on the stage.

The packed chapel sustained the quietude of complete emptiness as Dr. C. R. Jenkins, pastor of the Mulberry Methodist church and former president of Wesleyan, thanked God for the occasion which permitted the gathering of such an assemblage and asked divine guidance for the 1928 graduating class and all within his hearing and continued prosperity and usefulness for Wesleyan college.

PRESENT AGE BEST SAYS DR. W. G. HENRY

Declaring that the present age is the most ideal period of history in which to live, Dr. W. G. Henry, professor of business education at Emory college, preached at vesper services Sunday afternoon at the First Methodist church.

"There is more revival in religion than some might think," he said. "We have 5,000 missionaries, ministers of the gospel and nurses for our denominational work during the past few years, and 7,000 of the very finest in the southland applied for service."

Dr. Henry filled the pulpit in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Sam T. Senter, who was called to Bristol, Va., to deliver the commencement sermon at Sullens college.

GEORGIAN DROWNS AT ANNAPOLIS, MD.

Annapolis, Md., May 27.—(P)—Falling overboard from a launch while making preparations to land at a dock, Cecil A. Leary, 19, a seaman attached to the Reina Mercedes, a ship at the naval academy, was drowned in 30 feet of water here today.

Leary's home was said by naval academy authorities to be at 1489 Harper street, Augusta, Ga. Several divers were sent down by Captain William Halsey, of the Reina Mercedes to search for the body but abandoned their efforts late this afternoon. They will continue the search tomorrow.

furniture, rugs and paper, in addition to those who have supported the center's work for many years past. The increase is needed to meet growing demands for service resulting from increased population of the city.

Contributions will be sent for on call to Ivy 2224. Only second-hand clothing, furniture and other used material can be accepted for support of the center as all cash contributions are solicited one time each year through the Community Chest for other Salvation Army relief and social service activities.

extent, "It takes one-half of your time and labor to raise feed to carry your work stock through," one farm authority says, "that you could be applying to raising marketable crops.
Then there arises the labor proposition that is such a problem on our farms today. This can be overcome by using the tractor, one man doing the work of several and doing it better. If the people of our county will set apart that day, which has been set as June 7, and come to the wheat day demonstration to see what can be done and what has been done with machinery, it will help you to solve your troubles and lessen your expense of production, make possible getting your crops in in the proper time, and grow a greater variety of crops.

This wheat is to be harvested with a combination harvester, that is, it cuts and thrashes it all in one operation, cutting a great many acres each day.

The land is to be prepared by tractors for the planting of soy beans right behind the harvester. Tractors tools preparing the land at one operation, disc harrow, chisel cultivator, and catclapper in a train. Caterpillar tractors and other tractors will be on the job, and several new implements that most people have never seen in operation. Clearing land, subsoiling, cover crop harrowing, chisel cultivating, and a number of other interesting operations will be demonstrated.

D. J. Carrison will be in a position on that day to tell the actual cost of producing this crop of wheat. He is expecting several hundred people there.

NEWELL-THOMAS OPENS NEW OFFICE IN BIRMINGHAM

The Newell-Thomas Office Equipment company is again expanding. It has just opened a new branch office in Birmingham. This company, composed of hustlers, has surrounded itself with experts in the office supply line.

While the concern has been in business less than two years it has grown rapidly and is constantly looking for more needed room to take care of the many needed and improved lines it is now handling.

While the company's main store and salesroom are at 88-90 Walton street,
it recently rented the old Crumley Sharp Hardware store and now is using it for surplus stocks of used and new office equipment.

In the large show windows you will see complete office fitted with carpet, walnut matched suites, Oriental rugs, draperies and paintings. As members of this firm are equipment engineers,
they can very quickly make a dull, unattractive office a very inviting-looking place.

Since it has been in business the Newell-Thomas company has equipped scores of offices in Atlanta and nearby towns and some of those offices, like the Georgia Railway and power company's, directors' room, are very elaborately fitted.

In addition to office equipment, this firm carries a complete line of office stationery. No matter how large or small the order may be, the office supply line it will be appreciated by this rapidly growing office equipment firm.

The great speed records recently made at Oxford, Fla., on Dunlop tires has been a great impetus for the sale of these tires in Georgia, Florida and Alabama, says E. H. Strupper, salesmanager of the Everett Strupper Tire and Service station at 428 Spring street. The fact that the great English drivers made over 200 miles an hour in safety on Dunlop tires gives the driver of 71 or 80 miles an hour with Dunlop tires on his car reasonable assurance that if they stand the terrible strain and heat of better than 200 miles an hour, they will get him over the road without mishap.

"It has not taken these Florida record runs to convince our customer of two or three years' standing how good Dunlop tires are," Mr. Strupper says. "They know by experience that they get big value for the money they spend on these well-made tires and tubes."

"One thing that is greatly helping our business," stated H. N. Fleming, credit manager, "is the guarantee we give to every buyer of Dunlop tires.

Miller Lumber Company Prepared for Builders

The large number of building projects now under way and in prospect in and around Atlanta has attracted attention of supply men all over the country. Atlanta dealers are being looked upon as preferred customers and the best that is made is being shipped into this city in large quantities to take care of present and future needs of Atlanta and Georgia builders.

One of Atlanta's progressive supply dealers, the Miller Lumber company, of 1171 Ridge avenue, S. W., among its other supplies has just laid in these new Brunswick tires, which it is now better prepared than ever to supply every want of the small homeowner or the large contractor that wants carload lots of good roofing.

IVY ST. TIRE FIRM SELLING IMPROVED TIRE ON TIME

The Gibbs-Kendall Tire company, well known automobile service center of 73 Ivy street, is getting exceptional response to its latest protection feature on the Brunswick tire, which it represents in the Atlanta territory.

This protection covers any trouble that the purchaser might have with these new Brunswick tires, such as rim cuts, stone bruises and any other cause that might arise from ordinary use of a car.

These new Brunswick tires are being built and improved in the light of long experience. They resist exceptionally well the hard strain of average tire is subject to in being scraped along or backed into rough streets.

This company has such faith in these new Brunswick tires that it gives all reliable old or new customers the privilege of riding on them as long as 12 weeks before they need be all paid for, and during as long a time as three months any car owner can be had by all dealers who are standing up, for have they not by that time had ample proof that these tires are the best of their kind?

Gibbs-Kendall is also dealer for the celebrated Philco diamond grid batteries, the most reliable of their kind, suit any kind of car or truck. These batteries, like their tires and tubes, can be bought on the divided payment plan.

SALVATION ARMY LAYS GRIFFIN CORNERSTONE

Griffin, Ga., May 27.—(Special.)— Colonel Alfred A. Chandler, chief secretary for the southern territory of the Salvation Army, laid the cornerstone for the new Salvation Army civic center at Griffin Sunday afternoon amid impressive services.

J. W. Gresham, chairman of the Griffin advisory board of the army, presided at the exercises. Colonel Robert Sandall, editor of The War Cry, and Captain Leiby spoke.

The Griffin civic center, for which $25,000 was contributed by Griffin, last November, will be the first institution of its kind built by the Salvation Army since the establishment of southern territorial headquarters in the south.

It includes a chapel with corps auditorium for religious services, a separate building housing a gymnasium and industrial shops where manual training will be taught to Griffin boys, and a third building for officers quarters all grouped around an open space to be equipped as a children's playground.

Work is to be pushed through rapidly

COUNTY RESTRAINED IN HIGHWAY CONTRACT

Swainsboro, Ga., May 27.—(Upper) commissioners of Emanuel county have been served with a temporary injunction restraining them from paying any money to the state highway department on the contract for limestone base, light treated top paving on route 1, Swainsboro to the Douglas county line. It was learned here today. The highway department has advertised for bids which will be opened on May 30 at East Point.

The serving of the injunction is another step in the effort of citizens to prevent this type of road from being constructed. It is said. The hearing on the permanent injunction will be at Louisville, Ga., on June 9.

A committee of Emanuel county citizens left today to appear before the state highway board at noon Tuesday, to formally protest the type of road it is proposed to construct.

Ray Makes Debut On Vocal Stage Locally Tonight

Atlanta direct from an all-winter engagement at Miami, Fla., by Roy D. Smith, noted conductor, and featuring the immensely clever screen comedy, "Why Sallors Go Wrong," on the screen, the new Capitol program which opens today promises to be one of the most enjoyable offered at a local house in several weeks. Sally Phipps, delectable younger star of the screen, is starred in "Why Sallors Go Wrong."

Loew's Grand.
Three headline attractions will appear on the new bill of vaudeville which will open at Loew's Grand theater today. Al Herman, "The Assassin of Grief and Remorse," will bring his big fun festival with him for an annual visit. Mame Donatella, presenting "A Carnival of Venice," will bring one of vaudeville's most beautiful acts featuring singing, dancing and instrumental music. The picture is "Becky."

Howard.
A special commemorative week program is being offered at the Howard theater starting today. The appropriate picture has been selected entitled "Hold 'Em Yall." It stars the dashing Rod La Rocque and features the famous "Hold 'Em Yall" song, which is a beautiful and beautiful blend. The picture stage revue bears the name "Hold 'Em Yall," and is said to be all that the name implies. In it Jack Stanley introduces something new in the entertainment field.

Rialto.
With the Lindbergh-Coolidge reception in sight and sound on the new bill starting today, the Rialto theater this week, Manager W. T. Murray will offer "Chicago After Midnight," one of the most thrilling and melodramatic pictures of the screen this season, as the feature attraction. In addition to the feature picture and the Lindbergh-Coolidge reception, the program also includes three big acts of vaudeville: The Happiness Boys, America's most popular radio entertainers, Fred Arlath and company presenting a delightful satire, "Men Among Men," and Vincent Lopez and his orchestra presenting their Hollywood orchestra on the bill.

Metropolitan.
Patric Runk Miller, Warner Baxter and William Collier, Jr., head the cast in "The Tragedy of Youth," the Met's attraction for the week. It is a story of youth and the wrecking of the lives of youths who do things without thinking. Vitaphone presentations on the program are the Six Original Brown Brothers, scaptothic artists: Clyde Cook, classic comedian of the cinema, in "Lucky in Love," and the Stoll Flynn company, a jazzmania quartette.

Hagen To Sail For U. S. Soon
London, May 27.—(AP)—Worn out by his long series of exhibition matches since winning the British open golf championship, Walter Hagen announced today that he was withdrawing from the Irish open and will sail for New York in a few days. Hagen will remain in London a short time before going to Paris before sailing for home on the Mauretania June 2. The British champion has traveled 3,000 miles on his European tour, ending the grind with the Irish open on successive days at Richmond Friday, Clontarf, Ireland, Saturday, and at Cooden Beach today.

What Next? Golf Is Up in the Air Now

Garden City, New York, May 27.—(AP)—An aerial golf match was played over the old Westbury Golf club course this afternoon.

M. M. Merrill, flying a monoplane, paled with William Hammond on the ground to beat Arthur Caperton in the air and William Winston on the ground completing nine holes in 28 to opponents' 32.

All four players are pilots at Curtis field, which adjoins the course. Play at each hole began with each aerial contestant dropping a golf ball as close as possible to the hole. This counted as one stroke. The players on the ground then proceeded as in a regular game. The winners held the ball in two at the par five six hole.

During the play Colonel Charles Lindbergh flew over the course. Then Kasche, German aviator, said she hoped to pair with a prominent woman golfer to challenge the winners next Sunday.

RACER INJURED.
Decatur, Ill., May 27.—(AP)—Glen N. Hiett, 27, of Rock Island, Ill., received probable fatal injuries when his racing car crashed into a fence, smashed and threw him out in a dirt track automobile race. Hiett, who had already won one race, was leading the final race when the accident occurred.

TOMLOUGHAN DEFENDS TITLE ON WEDNESDAY
New York, May 27.—(AP)—Another champion puts his crown in jeopardy for the edification and enjoyment of New York's boxing fans this week. Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, begins a busy campaign on Wednesday night when he risks his light
